

Fr. Beatty Accepts Big Christmas Dance Hilgenberg Award To Be Held Dec. 28

On December 5, 1960, a $50,000 check, representing funds subscribed for a memorial to the late William F. Hilgenberg, was presented to Loyola College by the Hilgenberg Memorial Committee. The presentation was made at a dinner meeting of the committee on the Evergreen campus.

The Very Rev. Vincent F. Beatty, President of the College, accepted the check from Clarence E. Elderkin, the committee chairman. Also present at the dinner were C. Elmer Nolte, Jr., S.L. Hammerman, and Patrick Roche, co-chairman.

According to Father Beatty, the money will be used to equip a laboratory in the new Physics-Engineering building. A plaque honoring Mr. Hilgenberg will be placed in the new building.

Active at Loyola

Mr. Hilgenberg, who died a year ago, was a member of the Advisory Group for Development for Loyola which launched plans for the new structure.

$400,000 Needed

At the meeting, President Beatty announced the formation of an Engineering Physics Building Project Committee to aid the college in raising $400,000, which, when added to the present sum will suffice.

On Wednesday, December 28, the Green and Gray Club and the Freshman Class will co-sponsor the December Dance. The theme of the dance will be "Christmas at Evergreen." The decorating committee is headed by junior Joseph McCurdy, who plans to decorate the gym lavishly around this theme.

Freshmen "First"

This is the first time in two years that any Freshman class at Loyola has sponsored an event of this nature. It is indicative of the fine school spirit which the Class of '64 has shown thus far. In addition, the class will share in the profits of this dance with the Green and Gray.

Men of Note

Jim Berger, Chairman of the Projects Committee for the Green and Gray, is this year's dance chairman. According to Jim, the dance will be from nine o'clock until 1, with music being furnished by the Men of Note orchestra. The price of admission has been set at $3.00 per couple.

The support of the dance by the student body will be one way to help boost school spirit. It is hoped that as many students as possible will return to the campus for an evening of enjoyment.

Busy Line

Without the aid of Mr. Bell's fine invention, the Greyhound, due to the snow, would not have been published this week. Here is the reason for the two page Christmas issue.

S-no-w Show

Due to the inclement weather, our Christmas concert was postponed for this year. However, the Glee Club did journey to Dunbarton and gave a fine concert with the girls on Wednesday evening. If weather permits, the club will be able to put in its three scheduled hospital appearances this year.

Noel! Noel!

The Greyhound, faculty, and students of Loyola would like to wish a happy holiday and a speedy recovery to Tom lampieri. We hope to see you soon, Tom.

U.M.O.C

The senior class announced recently that it is sponsoring a U.M.O.C. contest in order to fatten its treasury. What in the world is a U.M.O.C.?

Candy Clique

The Block L has recently announced a sale of candy in the book-store.

Rector's Message

To the Students of Loyola College:

Sincere Christmas greetings are an invitation to enter upon and to participate in the mystery of human existence. The center of that mystery and the center of Christmas is Jesus Christ, the Son of God, who, when the human race was estranged from God by sin, came to restore us to His friendship and give us back our birthright.

By being born one of us and taking upon Himself the burden of our flesh, He calls us from the despair of sin and underscores the beauty and value of our humanity. We are made again the sons of God. And thus it is that the star of Bethlehem radiates hope, peace and a foretaste of eternal bliss. Why did He do this for us? He had nothing to gain for Himself! Men had nothing better to give Him for a cradle than a manger and for a deathbed just the blood and hard wood of the cross. By His coming He made us one with Him: we Christians are other Christs who are to act as He did. May then we seek, in this the most human of our festivals, not our own satisfaction in receiving tokens of love; may we rather find our Christmas happiness in making others happy and thereby know the joy of unselfish giving.

The peace of Christ be with you and your dear ones!

Sincerely,

Vincent F. Beatty, Jr.

President

Loyolans Given Lie Detector Test

On Wednesday, Dec. 7, members of the Baltimore Police Department spoke to several seniors on the uses of the lie detector in criminal procedures.

The officers were connected with the polygraphic division of the Police Department, a special division which handles all procedures involving the use of a lie-detector. The sergeant pointed out that there are no machines capable of recording the spoken word and at the same time interpreting its truth value. He also emphasized that the detector can be used as a screening device.

The officer related that several methods were used throughout history to determine a guilty person, methods on the theory that bodily tension results in emotional disturbances.

Senior Ennis Quigley volunteered to undergo a lie detector test. He was told to assume that he intended to steal one of six objects the sergeant placed before him. Then the sergeant asked questions, all of which Ennis answered negatively. The graph showed conclusively which article he intended to steal.

Christmas

The Holiday Season is again upon us. We are, in fact, in the midst of Advent. Advent, a period of preparation, supposedly; and preparation is everywhere: many colored lights and other decorations are being displayed about the city, the stores are crowded with shoppers buying gifts and cheer, the Post Office is busy reinforcing its strength; these and other occurrences are indicative of a preparation.

We are all aware that a more serious preparation is expected of us; however, too often, many do not even entertain a serious attitude until the Eve.

In the chapel, the Nativity Scene is already prepared. It is to assist us in realizing the situation which is to occur. Some feel it is of benefit only to the children; but we should study it carefully, for we are a part of it. We are, in a way, the manger; and regardless of how coarse and unsuitable it may be, we can at least smooth the edges and rearrange the straw.

A Final Word

We have admitted that there is a problem. Reasons given by some students for the existence of this problem are various: one has said that the students lack love of their school; another, that they fear the administration; and yet another, that the students lack the proper attitude. We congratulate these students for their interest and effort. As a final word, however, let us seek the answer to that question which should have been answered initially in our discussion, namely, "What is school spirit?"

Many feel that school spirit is identical with some kind of demonstration. As a result of this attitude, some say that school spirit is supporting the team. Let us call this "supporting the team"; school spirit is of a much more general nature.

When, through our efforts and time, we contribute something to the school, we manifest school spirit. If we agree to this, we are then among those who say that school spirit demands participation in extra-curricular activities; however, this is not school spirit in itself, it is a result of such.

In the Alma Mater we sing, "Our love and our loyalty to thee we pledge anew." This is the "spirit" we are seeking; we do not see spirit, we feel it. If all of us can sincerely sing the Alma Mater, then school spirit flourishes, and its external effects are inevitable.

It is a fact, however, that many do not even know the words.

The Watchdog

Since this is the last issue of the paper before the holidays, allow us to express our best wishes for a "cool Yule" and a "funny first." Christmas does bring problems to some members of the student body.

Rol Sturm wants to know how one gift wraps a keg of beer.

And, Freddie Weinberg wants to know why a Catholic college like Loyola is giving such a long holiday for Hannukah. Oy, geffalt!

News comes to us from the Evergreen Quarterly office, that their members have been growing fungus in one of Joe's coffee cups. This came as a surprise to us, because we didn't think that our coffee was capable of supporting any life.

Ed Slawski and Dick Benjes would like to thank "Brooks" Hobbs for a very fine review of the play. Also they thought it was poorly written. (?)

For what it might be worth, the senior Science majors would like us to mention a certain "Great Procrastinator" who lurks on the third floor of the science building. Any questions?

"Congratulations to the Sophomore editors, who did a splendid job on the Soph bulletin last week."

Rick Campbell '63

Lindsey Schutz would like to ask the student body for any ideas on a quotation with which he may begin his yearbook. No excerpts from "Troilus and Cressida" will be accepted.

We thought that a mention of "the Bird" in last week's column would keep him and his relatives pacified. However, since they still insist on nesting above my car, we're sure that other means are necessary. Anybody got a rag for this windshield?

Since the Greyhound deadline is on Monday, and since this Monday was an offday, the dog was given the honor of wandering through Grady's folly on the way to school. We would like to thank the Mayor, Mr. Barnes, and especially the B. T. C. for making our usual boring fifteen minute trip a glorious and adventure filled three-hour journey.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By PETE COOK
Ass't. Sports Editor

If their first two meets indicate anything, it appears that Loyola's swimming team is off to one of its best seasons. In winning their first two encounters, the Hounds submerged Fordham and St. Peter's-Holy Cross in a triangular meet by massing a total of 155 points. They won every event in their engagement with St. Peter's and Holy Cross.

The Hounds are well stocked in every event and are almost too deep in each of them. Sophomore Ken Friemuth appears to be headed for a brilliant year. Ken racked up 36 points last weekend in three events, butterfly, breaststroke, and the individual medley. Freshman Charlie Bree turned out a 14 point effort in the triangular meet, winning both the 50 and 100 yard freestyles.

Future Looks Good

Another Freshman, Al Kubeluis, took first in all the distance freestyle events he started; and Vic Corbin won both his diving starts. Lew Smith and Jim Burns give the Hounds a strong one-two punch in the backstroke, they traded first place finishes last weekend.

With the Sophomore-Freshman dominated team, the future is very bright for the tankmen. They should be in the position of defending champions next season.

Basketball

The hoopsters play St. Peter's Monday. After the holidays they will be out to get their perennial foes from B.U. The Reitzmen will be looking for their first win in three years from the Bee quint.

Intramurals

With football ending, the I.M. basketball tilting is expected to go into full swing right after the holidays. Applications for basketball may be picked up at the bulletin board in the gymnasium. Today is the last day for this.

The intramural Bowling league, which bowls at the Guilford Lanes, was organized and is being run by Jack Heisner and Al Wieber.

SENIORS SHINE IN DEFEAT—Heagney gets "2" before injury in Adelphi tilt; Murn hooks for 2 of his 25 against Hofstra.
